

THE CUT REVIEW

AUTUMN EDITION • 2005

The Cut Golf Course Quarterly Newspaper

Port Bouvard • Western Australia

THE WAIT IS OVER!

The Cut Golf Course opened to members on January 3 and rave reviews started to be heard from day one. Not least of these came from European Tour player Jarrod Moseley who immediately placed it in the top two in Australia.

Moseley, back in Perth briefly before returning to his European commitments joined another Perth favourite, Kim Felton who was also in town for a summer break before his first year on the US Nationwide tour. Together they took on our own Director of Golf John Kelly and Golf Manager David Watson for a $30,000 Skins tournament, with all of that money going to various Tsunami charities.

Opening Day for Members

210 players hit the course for the first time on January 3 and several stableford scores in the 40's showed just how ready members are to get active in their new club.

Memberships have been taken up at a rate far higher than expected, so a full book of Foundation Members were rewarded with an earlier than expected course opening.

Clubhouse Opening

The clubhouse is also well underway, with completion expected in March and a Gala Opening booked for April 9 and 10.

✠ Mark those dates in your diaries now, because a wonderful evening has been planned for the occasion and seats will be limited. Use of the clubhouse will be phased in throughout March, with the Locker Rooms, Pro Shop and Restaurant being made available as soon as each is completed.

News of the openings of each of these centres and of the Gala Opening will be broadcast in our regular email newsletters, so it is important that you notify us of your email addresses if you have not already done so.

Fine Dining

The name Mediterranean has always been synonymous in Perth with highest standard of restaurant cuisine, classic wines and great craic. All of those great sensations will be available once more with the opening of The Cut's exquisite new Mediterranean Restaurant. The clubhouse will also offer more casual dining in the Fairways sprig bar, but wherever they drink or dine, Members and their guests can look forward to five-star service and all the graceful ambience expected of one of Australia's finest private clubs.

A club where golf is played

The Club at The Cut is not like any other club in Western Australia. It is designed to cater for an extraordinary variety of activities, afforded to it by the unique nature of the entire Port Bouvard concept.

We say it is a club where golf is played rather than a traditional golf club, so Cut members can look forward to a great variety of innovative activities.

The clubhouse will offer not only golf, but croquet and bocce too. The coming hotel development will offer tennis, and our innovative entertainment team are already at work planning a calendar full of wonderful surprises. No wonder memberships are selling fast. So if you want to involve your friends in your new life at The Cut, I can only say act soon!
